

Material management system

The Client

The customer is a leading provider of communication network systems, services and software.

The Challenge

The objective was to a reengineer their material management system.

The Solution

Our team reengineered and enhanced the material management system, which was flexible and scalable to support new business initiatives. The reengineering effort involved replacing inflexible legacy solutions with flexible modules to incorporate change rapidly, suitable for competitive environments.

The Benefits

A robust and flexible solution built to critical standards and delivered on time provided greater organizational flexibility and competitiveness to the customer.

The Technology